The most unique stackable plywood chairs

The most unique stackable plywood chairs

About

Most unique plywood chair
Plycollection is combining the experience and capabilities of Latvia's largest furniture manufacturers with modern and world-renowned design. The innovative development process results in a collection of unique molded plywood chairs that fit anywhere – from homes and offices to public areas.

Materials and manufacturing technology
Curved glued plywood The furniture parts are produced by gluing several layers of plywood in electrical or high-frequency press forms, before that the plies are glue-rolled and placed on each other so that the fibers would be either perpendicular or longitudinal, based on the needs of the specific product and its design. The internal plies are birch plywood of different thicknesses – from 0.5 mm to 1.5 mm.

The available surface veneers include birch, oak, laminate, walnut, wenge, zebrano – and other woods. The chairs or furniture details can be finished in a variety of ways – we can use varnish, bleached varnish, cherry, wenge or black stain or tinted varnish in any of the NCS shades.

ZESTY

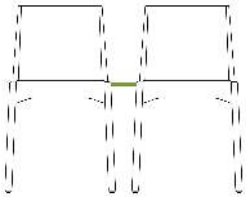

Zesty is designed with the intention to fully utilize and challenge our great skills in moulded plywood production. The result is a "spicy" and well-balanced chair that brings the best out of moulded plywood with a minimum of material and a maximum of comfort and style. Zesty is assembled by 3 parts only and weights as little as 3.5 kg.

Design: O4I Designstudio

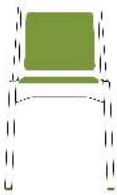

Founded in 2005 by Henrik Kjellberg and Jon Lindström. Being based in Stockholm, the studio focuses on contemporary public and domestic furniture for international market. Clients include Blå Station, Gärsnäs, Fritz Hansen, Martela and others. Their work has received several awards.
"We have a multidisciplinary approach to product design based on modern industrial parameters in the context of responsible mass production. We are driven by a curiosity for new technology, behaviours, materials and processes and find as much joy in exploring the possibilities of improvement within given strict limitations as we do in seeking the solutions that challenge what's expected," say H. Kjellberg and J. Lindström.

FLOW

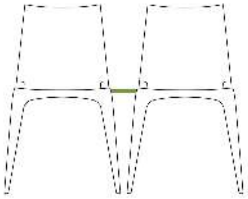

There is something very special about the chair that people all over the world love- both end-users and architects. Every finish gives the chair a new look, because of the whole wooden surface changes. Most popular finishes- in Europe oak, walnut, recently Flow in birch stained black is increasing.

Design: Jakob Berg

Was born in Roskilde in 1958 and educated as an industrial designer in Denmark. From the early 90's to his passing away in 2008 he collaborated with an impressive string acclaimed danish and international companies as well as receiving several prices and honors for his innovative designs.
A major bulk of his work was dedicated to Danida's furniture projects in Bolivia, Egypt and Vietnam. Berg had a clear preference for creating his elegant, functional and simple designs in sustainable wooden material of many kinds. He was an early pioneer in the exploration of bamboo in modern designs.
For Jakob Berg the concept of beauty was essential and he often said that "without beauty man wouldn't survive a second".

TWIGGY

Connection between backrest and frame makes the Twiggy chair especially elegant but at the same time cosy looks. There are no screws and metal joints used in the flowing lines of the chair. The armrests of the classic Twiggy chair merge with the bent frame and the ergonomic wavy curves of the backrest make the chair look mild.
